DETAILED ACTION

CLAIMS PRESENTED

Applicant has responded to the restriction requirement. At this moment, claims 1-11, 21-31 are presented.

CLAIM REJECTIONS

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Regarding claims 1-11, 21-31, the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Regarding claims 1-11, these claims consist solely of executing a particular mathematical algorithm of using a scrambling remainders in a particular way of framing a transmit code word. Guidance on this topic is provided by MPEP 2106: "In practical terms, claims define nonstatutory processes if they: – consist solely of mathematical operations without some claimed practical application (i.e., executing a "mathematical algorithm")." Thus, the subject matter of claims 1-11 is not eligible for a patent.

Regarding claims 21-31, these claims do recite the word "apparatus." Nevertheless, the rest of the claims consist solely of executing a particular mathematical algorithm of using a scrambling remainders in a particular way of framing a transmit code word. Merely claiming nonfunctional descriptive material (i.e., abstract idea such as an algorithm) stored on a mere "apparatus" (such as a computer-readable medium, in a computer, or on an electromagnetic carrier signal) does not make it statutory.

Thus, the subject matter of claims 21-31 is not eligible for a patent.

Allowable Subject Matter

The prior art of record does not teach or suggest the particular handling of scrambling remainders in such particular context as in the limitations of the claims. If the Patent Office does not become aware of more relevant prior art, claims may be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejections under 35 U.S.C. 101 set forth in this Office action.

Conclusion

The art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The art disclosed general background.
